Banff Symposium on Organic Chemistry (BSOC) 2005

November 10-12th, 2005

Website: www.bsoc.ca

The 2nd BSOC will be held in picturesque Banff in the fall of 2005. This conference aims to highlight students' research in the fields of synthetic, bio-organic, materials and organometallic chemistry, while providing an opportunity to discuss their work with industrial, post-doctoral and faculty researchers.

The conference will span two and a half days, opening Thursday evening with an exciting mixer and a lecture by an internationally renowned speaker. Friday will feature a full day of presentations by invited speakers as well as graduate students from across Canada, followed by an evening poster session. Presentations will continue on Saturday, concluding in the afternoon.

Keynote speakers for the 2005 BSOC include Dr. Matthew Shair (Harvard University), Dr. Carolyn Bertozzi (UC Berkeley), Dr. Ben L. Feringa (University of Groningen), Dr. John F. Hartwig (Yale University), and a representative from Merck-Frosst.

Online registration and abstract submission begins March, 2005.
